Concept and Color:

- Design Concept Statement:

AN ACTIVE STANCE ON WELLNESS

- Design Concept:

Fitbit's company, culture, and creativity in its products are centered around wellness. Through research, a few key words give focus to Fitbit's goals for both the consumer and employee: Health, Inspire, Active, Happiness, Energy, and Empower. While many of these intertwine with each other- for instance, being active and healthy affecting one's happiness- breaking down these words into action items that can be implemented was important for the design intention of the Fitbit Corporate Headquarters.

Through using these key words to pinpoint different objectives, the Corporate Headquarters of Fitbit will promote the health and well-being of its employees and guests alike. With a culture that is empowered by the love of the brand and product, the workplace will stimulate an active and energetic work life that builds inspiration and energy in its employees. A sedentary deskling situation is not for an employee that believes in Fitbit, therefore practical and innovative solutions will allow the corporate headquarters to be a haven, therefore promoting productivity and longevity in employees. The design will not passively wish for the employees to be healthy outside of the workplace. Instead, integrated into the very design of the Headquarters will be active acknowledgements to the people who Fitbit desires to help- both inside and outside the office.

- Color Palette is driven by warm, earthy brown tones contrasting with Bright white and accenting interests of blue that are the same hue as the Fitbit logo.
